I leave an activity, for example my home screen activity when a notification is displayed from the app, and if I press the back button in my phone, the activity is closed. In this case, the app is not closed. I can see it in the app list, and can click the app icon to open it, however when I click it, the app opens and the animation plays. I would like to use the animation when the activity is not closed, and not have the animation when the activity is closed. How can I do that? A: You cannot cancel an activity from inside an activity. You need to find a way to keep it open. The way I have done it is that I put an animation in the launcher activity to give the user a clue that a new activity is coming up. The animation is the opening of a video player and an image is flashed to the screen as the activity is coming up. When you press the back button, the activity is not closed, just put in the background, and then when you navigate to that activity you can finish(). EDIT: If you start an activity from another one, you should be able to set the intent flag F LAG_ACTIVITY_REORDER_TO_ FRONT, and then when the user presses the back button, the activity is restarted at the front of the stack.

Titanof (Titan Extreme Pro) This mouse is a tremendous improvement over the one before it. It features a faster sensor, the right palm rest, and a faster processor. Description: The Titan Extreme Pro is the newest mouse on the Titan line. The Titan Extreme Pro was designed with the thought that, as a Titan series product, it should offer Titan level performance, comfort, and a Titan price. The Titan Extreme Pro is our most advanced mouse to date. It features our fastest sensor, our most durable palm rest, and a new processor that allows for faster and more reliable performance. The Titan Extreme Pro is the only mouse that will have buttons and scrollwheels on the right hand side. This way you can also adjust the buttons that you use more than others (like the thumb button) without having to flip the mouse over. The Titan Extreme Pro has an advanced optical sensor that provides crisp and reliable tracking and unmatched resolution. The right palm rest makes for a smooth and precise handgrip. The Titan Extreme Pro is the mouse that will always win over the competition, regardless of the competition. User reviews: "The Titan Extreme Pro's sensor has the perfect combination of high precision and stability while the DPI settings are optimized to suit an extreme level of sensitivity. The sensor also boasts an in-depth, powerful calibration that corrects for nearly all defects present in any optical mouse. It's, simply, the best mouse to date." - CNET "When it comes to the Titan Extreme Pro, Razer has taken our own performance to the next level. It's our fastest, most durable, and most precise mouse to date." - The Tech Report "Even with all the cool features and the over-the-top features, the Titan Extreme Pro is still a mouse. You can say that the mouse has a great build quality and design." - About: The Computer Place "The Titan Extreme Pro has a faster, more precise sensor, an enhanced design, and a much longer life than the Titan. Titan gets an F, Titan Extreme gets an A+." - HotHardware "On a scale of 1 to 10, the Titan Extreme Pro is a 9. It's a powerhouse that will literally stop the competition dead in its tracks." - Expert Reviews Specialist 600 Specialist 600 Software is the application you need to enhance your specialist mouse.
