Citations Category:Sheet musicEven though the opioid crisis is a nationwide issue, it is especially important to remember the many families that live right here in Michigan. Our families don't just rely on the emergency services. They have been impacted by the opioid crisis as well. When people find that they need treatment, our families are often left in the lurch. They are unsure of who to turn to. They don't have many options. They are left to navigate the system on their own, and many of the professionals are overwhelmed and lack resources. Our families are more isolated than ever. Solutions We created Solutions, because we believe that every family deserves access to adequate and well-equipped resources. Our first step in identifying that need was to reach out to the professionals who are actually on the ground. Our team surveyed many Michigan-based addiction providers and treatment facilities to identify the most important needs in our community. We found out that if we can make better connections between these providers, then they can help one another improve the quality of services for our families. Providers love having all of their friends (or at least the ones who are not at the crisis stage) in one place, where they can all learn from one another. We have started working towards forming Solutions by building a network of addiction treatment providers, so that they can share their information and resources with one another. This can help them be more efficient and help people find the right resources faster. Currently, the network consists of: 3 primary treatment centers for opioids 5 detox centers for opioids 5 detox centers for other drugs 5 behavioral health clinics 5 case management centers 5 care coordination centers
