Assassin's Creed Rogue Game Free Download Full Version for Windows.Q: Can't install ruby-dbi on OSX I am trying to install ruby-dbi on a Rubymine project but I keep getting an error during the install. When I execute the install I get the following error. ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/openssl/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/readline/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libressl/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libgssapi/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libnss/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/openssl/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/readline/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libressl/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libgssapi/lib' ld: warning: directory not found for option '-L/usr/local/opt/libnss/lib' make:  [subfind_static] Error 1 Error running bootstrap step: Gem::Installer::ExtensionBuildError What could I be missing? A: Just put this one line to the command line. export LDFLAGS="-Wl,-search_paths_first" Basically we're telling the linker to search the library directories before it looks in the current directory. A: The error message you're getting is telling you that something's wrong with your search paths. The first error it mentions tells you that one of the directories listed does not exist, it's just looking in the wrong place. You have a couple of options.
