Q: How to return the function value as void pointer? I want to return a function which returns void pointer. Below is my code snippet. `struct hello { int x; void *f() { return (void )&x; } }; void foo() { hello x; return &x.f(); }` When I try to compile this code in g++, it gives error at `return &x.f();`; I want to return void* type to foo() function instead of int* as how `return &x.f();` works. A: Try it: `struct hello { int x; void *f() { return &x; } };` 6a5afdab4c
