Monacor Caad 4.2 !FULL!

This simulation software offers more than just a basic representation of expected acoustical results. The essential part of the function is that .NET Framework can generate and render arbitrary models, and this mechanism is very flexible. Some of our most successful models are simple models generated with the .NET Framework and using DirectX features such as Nsight. Other models include more complex mechanisms using 3D models that include both physical and digital modeling techniques. In this section, we use our models to investigate various aspects of acoustic emission.
