Q: Android webview underlining links on Chrome causing flickering I have a simple webview app. My links, i.e. texts, are underlined with a blue line. Problem is, while this works perfectly on Android 4.0.3 and below, it has a weird flicker on Android 4.4.x. I also considered doing the the hard way, and calling the functions separately but it just seems to get messier and messier. I also considered the idea of passing a function name and then looking it up at runtime but I didn't think that would work. So, how does one go about passing functions as parameters? Edit: A general solution to passing functions as parameters is a great answer. I'm using it now. A: Since your question isn't about the function itself, but how to call them, you need the mem-function to get the address of the function and
