Flipbook Printer Suite is a Joomla component designed to help you create flipbook and tutorial books. It lets you draw, crop and organize images with an easy and customizable toolbar. Use it to create, combine, edit and publish flipbook and tutorial books.

Example, by responding to a specific keyevent in your html, you can keep a client engaged and avoid, at best, a visit to the bathroom. It's even possible to get right into the act, marking down times for water breaks, and notifying the client when to cease activity. Keyboard-operated time tracking apps can also be used outside a design team's production set, however, they lack the ability to scale up with the client's requirements. While Flash-based desktop apps are a common tool in the design toolbox for this purpose, they tend to be expensive to purchase and have to be installed on the workstation of each member of the studio. Significant drawbacks also exist when using this app in the preview stage. Not only is the design very hard to read and difficult to update, it may also be an expensive solution for the client that really can't afford to receive any more Flash app purchases. To remedy the lack of scalability and accessibility, we took a look to other technology to create this app that let's you track, log and mark a client's engagement, save the dates, water breaks, breaks times as well as other key events. Such as notes, progress progress, tasks, et cetera. Given the fact we've thought about these things, you'd be surprised how much there is to learn about what goes into designing a simple, yet effective project. Each of the major stages for creating a web app has been covered, plus, the different web technologies, tools, and practices have been examined at length so that you can not only consume, but learn from our experience. Don't miss "Making It Work", which is a PDF guide to reinforce the training modules that are included in the app. In this guide, the user receives a guided tour of the entire project. He or she will not only learn what and why things are included in the app, but they will be exposed to many features that are usually overlooked. About This Course This training course is developed specifically to provide you with a comprehensive course on web designing. You'll use the web app YouWeb
