Young readers are devouring graphic novels, people are using humor to face big, complex issues, and creators are striving to make it as easy as reading a book. And yet... The latest title to enter the comic industry rests firmly in the literary canon. It's written by a writer you've read and loved, and it's drawn by a talented artist you know. And I suspect you've long been waiting for a book like this. The fact that I'm getting to say that might be a pretty big hint about how you should feel about this book. It was first created by the businessman and founder, Mariano Brandolini d'Onesti, in 1963. History Mariano Brandolini d'Onesti who is famous for his winery that bears his name, bought the Haute Cabardine of St. Lawrence a few years before, and he turned it into a hotel which he named Le Timbiras, for its proximity with the Mont Cenis, in the middle of the Alps. The hotel was closed because of the strikes of the 1960s, and then it was opened again to the fashion world, the nightlife world and the youth of the city. Brandolini d'Onesti had a coffee bar, with a name that summarized what was going on the whole, under a roof of "à la carte" (cuisine à la carte). There he sold cocktails, smoked food, pastry, and other delicacies. With the help of the designer, Giuseppe Fiori and his wife, Tina Marchese, the brand was finally born in 1963. A new study by the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) ranks Canada as one of the top 10 most business-friendly nations in the world. The Canadian government also performed well in the study, which highlights "best practices" of government and private-sector entities worldwide. The report, released Wednesday, is based on surveys of more than 800 senior executives at business and non-profit organizations around the world. All in all, it was a strong year for Canada, with the country ranking 10th in the world for its "best-in-class" performers in the small and medium enterprises (SMEs) sector. The report says SMEs are the backbone of the global economy, with more than half of the world's workforce working for them. This is the first study to show that Canada has risen so high in the rankings, which was also surprising to officials at the Canadian Embassy. "It was surprising to us. We did not expect Canada to be in the top 10," says Remi Rabasca, director of the Canadian Mission to the International Organization for Migration. "However, we should take this as an opportunity to promote Canada as a good place to invest, particularly in small and medium size businesses." Canada surpassed the U.S. to become the world's 10th most business-friendly nation. Each year, the New World Outlook study, produced by the Council on Foreign Relations, ranks countries based on "best practices" of government and private-sector entities worldwide. The most business-friendly country is Singapore, followed by Sweden. And the City Council's pick for the district attorney is... "I love New York and I love that your legal system is relatively fair. I am a big believer in the city as a set of laws." Nixon! Nixon! Suck the line! We Jignesh Shah, Product Marketing Manager of Algolia, describes the story behind the initial development of Algolia for India. The goal is to create a decentralised service by moving the process away from a centralised structure and onto a network that enables clients to self-organise and self-govern. An online service that is completely transparent by following a decentralised principle which is a positive shift for a growing internet and mobile centric country like India. I'd love to share the story of Algolia. We are a distributed search engine that powered by AI and Machine learning technology. We enable individuals to search and get answers to their queries. Our clients are of all age groups, from the startups to the large organisations. We were initially started for Indian universities, on campuses and studying malls. This is a business of recommendation/discovery on the internet. Everyone has a need for a recommendation engine and search engine at some point in time. When we started working on Algolia, we started talking to companies which were suffering from the limitations of search engines, And of course I have a another one! Currently, I'm focused on growing and building a strong community, engaging with our user base and to grow as a technology company. Anyway I'll start this segment by the 3.3k followers. See you in the next one!
