- Allows you to copy and download images from any website to your PC. - Support page "Win" key to search the text on a page by entering it. - Image preview when you download images. - Search keywords of the web page by filling in the text box. - Easy way to download images from the web. - It can follow the default "crawler" of Internet Explorer. - Automatic conversion of images. - Support page "cite", "br" elements. The key is that the image on your computer stays on your computer and is never sent back to the Internet. This is useful for less web savvy surfers because it means that they don't have to worry about deleting the file from their computer and the file was not deleted from their computer because the image stayed on their computer and can be returned to it. This is like you going to a restaurant and having them serve you a steak you saved and not having to call them to tell them to return it and then when you finally do get the steak and take it home having to work out how to cook it. SurfEx shortcut: Most of the time the best shortcuts to websites are directly related to keywords found in an image. For example "blog" is a keyword I often use in image searches. We created an online application that can help you find out what that keyword is and also gives you access to it and related images so that you can quickly access the info you need. This is a quick tool for combining all the normal ad sites into one place. It is probably the easiest and best method to find your ads. You should try the pay per click (PPC) ads first. Then experiment with the smaller ads to see which one works best for you. I find the single click ads to be very successful and easy to use. Now try the keyword tool. It is definitely a lot of fun. The Gunk Full of Green, or Gugl, a chemically based system designed to eliminate the buildup and presence of cleaning compounds in your toilet bowl, removes up to 300 times its weight of cleaning compounds, residue, and sewage. The contents of your toilet are flushed down the drain, but now Gugl collects and removes these harmful toxins in your system. This adds life to your toilet's bowl. Line Tie Clip Information: - Designed with patent pending technology. - Made from pure brass and aluminum. - Available in 2, 3,
