Posts Tagged 'air conditioning' Posted on October 1, 2013 "The time has come, my fellow Americans, to stop just talking about eradicating poverty in America; and to start actually doing something to rid ourselves of poverty." – Lyndon B. Johnson Noting that the time it has taken to create the 14th Amendment, was approximately twenty years, John Howard (Conservative Aussie) notes that the time it has taken to create a basic income guarantee program has taken approximately thirty years. Conservatives must be less confident than progressives that they know what is best for the poor. Then, and now, conservatives have not been in the forefront of initiating basic income guarantee programs. The Democrats in Congress have shown little interest in basic income. Many conservative Republicans might take comfort in the fact that they have not been the main proponents of a basic income guarantee program. Why, though? Aren't conservatives a natural ally of the poor, since "God intended it" and the poor have been "God's selected people"? But, in the most recent elections, an overwhelming number of conservative Republicans went to the voters and said they were AGAINST the basic income guarantee proposal that was being debated. What is this support and opposition all about? Some conservatives believe that the poor and the people who work with the poor have a natural right to charity but that no one has the right to take their money. Others see the poor and the people who work with the poor as a problem. The conservatives
