Also, the all-new gameplay engine - called "The FIFA Engine - is powered by a number of new technologies designed to shape the evolution of the PS3 and PC gaming experience," including "FIFA ULTIMATE TEAM 2.0" and "The FIFA Engine," as well as "Proximity" and "Companion" gameplay technologies - such as the ability to contact a player on a team-mate's team in "Away" game modes. Finally, the FIFA Ultimate Team "Reflection and Magnify" features on the PS3 bring increased control and interaction for FIFA Ultimate Team building and goal celebrations. "The FIFA 22 gameplay engine is a leap forward in terms of both the overall quality of gameplay, as well as our ability to deliver more precise and detailed gameplay in a more responsive environment. On top of that, we have added an authentic player likeness technology that captures true player gestures with less blur," said John Cheng, SVP of Global Product Development at EA SPORTS. "In addition, the game's visuals are the most detailed in FIFA history. We've also added 'Post-Processing' technology to further enhance the realism, while bringing the game's highly detailed environments to life. Finally, 'FIFA ULTIMATE TEAM 2.0' brings new ways to play the game by letting you create custom formations, tactics and custom stories." "This year, we have a new goalkeeping vision that has been driven by data from more than 9,000 players and more than 120 years of goalkeeping history," said Michael Mayland Smith, Chief Development Officer at EA SPORTS. "We've removed the rough-and-tumble feel of traditional set-up and gameplay. It's now more precise, less intuitive, and more realistic." Starting at the lowest level, 23 players in the starting XI feature real-life player names, with their age, position, national team, club, former club, shirt numbers and even salary and domestic league honors. Every character has a unique visual identity that captures the traits and hobbies that defined their real-life lifestyles. "FIFA 22 features the most sophisticated player animation to date in the biggest, most responsive video game," added Nelson Santos, senior game designer for FIFA. "The animation provides
