Jung kristopher 21-01-20 05:11 PM Hello everyone I changed my computer recently, I have an ACER ASPIRE 5750 and my windows 8.1 is 128 gb, only one 2,7 gb ssd and plust a 1 tera harddrive. I have installed windows 8.1 in internal hard drive, and my m/b has 4 gb of ram. My problem is when i turn on my laptop, i cant choose for the first boot the internal or the external hdd. When i select for the first boot the internal hard drive, the windows logo dont appear, and im forced to go to the recovery menu(C-Z I think). It happens with any OS that i try to install, i tried with windows 7 and 7.1, and even tried with ubuntu and mint, none of them get the same thing. Since it is a laptop, and i have one external, and only one internal hard drive, i dnt want to use the one that doesnt work, could someone help me please? I installed the kali linux, but since it is a old laptop, i cant use it as a router. I can make any modifications to the harddrive, if i have to but for now i just want to have a normal boot with the normal OS.
