Cave Painting ((Нарисовка из камня)) (English translation: The Cave Painting) is a 2005 Japanese animated film. It was produced by Gekidan produksi and Studio Gongoh, and was animated by Studio Deen with Mitsunobu Kitajima as director and Naohito Takahashi as screenplay writer. In an alternate future, the Earth has been split in two halves, and a race of invisible, humanoid creatures known as the People has colonized one half. The People are marked by the fact that each individual has an extremely vivid dream known as a picture of the future that reveals their destiny. A young woman called Shizuku struggles with the realization that she is one of these unlucky ones, who will spend her entire life on a deserted island. However, as she dreams of the future, she is also visited in her dreams by a mysterious entity named Kyutaro, who appears as a girl at one point. Due to the fact that her picture of the future shows her being rescued by Kyutaro on a desert island, she begins to believe that perhaps she can stop the future she is dreaming of. In the past, a thirty year old man named Yosuke was born into an elite family in a small city and spent his life working as a banker in the same city. One day, he gets into an accident that claimed the lives of his wife and his eldest son, while his youngest son becomes the sole heir to a large estate in Tokyo. At this point, he witnesses his younger brother Takumi getting into a terrible car accident and suffers a head injury that leaves him suffering from dementia. He is sent to a mental hospital and receives hormone replacement therapy in order to stabilize his mind. Upon his release, he travels to Tokyo and visits the mansion where he grew up, which happens to be the same house that Takumi occupies. He finds Takumi at home and tries to persuade him to move to a nursing home, but Takumi refuses, stating that he wants to die at home. He then visits a police station and finds out that Takumi has caused a traffic accident and accidentally killed two teenagers, as well as being a suspect in a murder. He visits Takumi's house, where he listens to Takumi talking to himself and learns that, unbeknownst to him, his younger brother is a criminal who kills people in order
