But since this is a photo editing program, it has as many tools to help create and improve your photos as the professional version. It is more of a starter program. Tonsillectomy is one of the most common operations in paediatric surgery. Pain following tonsillectomy is generally attributed to post-operative haemorrhage. The aim of the study was to assess the incidence of post-operative pain and other complications after tonsillectomy in children. A prospective, randomized study including 200 children aged between four and 16 years with tonsil hypertrophy scheduled for tonsillectomy was performed. Eighty-eight patients received cryotherapy and 112 patients underwent cold steel tonsillectomy. Pain and associated complications were assessed from the day of surgery to follow-up. Hospital records were evaluated to confirm the incidence of post-operative pain and other complications. There was no statistically significant difference in pain between the two groups at any of the points of follow-up ( $P = 0.139$ ). There was no statistically significant difference in the incidence of post-operative pain, pharyngeal oedema or any other complications between the two groups. The incidence of post-operative bleeding was lower in the cold steel tonsillectomy group ( $P = 0.000$ ). A jury on Tuesday convicted a former Pentagon civilian employee of assaulting a woman and called into question the victim's claims that she was sexually assaulted by a man in a Pentagon parking lot in 2017, a Pentagon official said. Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrew Romano told U.S. District Judge Tanya S. Chutkan that the jury didn't believe that any sexual assault occurred in the Sept. 3, 2017 incident, also calling into question the credibility of a woman who said she was sexually assaulted in the parking lot by a man. Daniel C. Bennett, 32, worked as a rental vehicle administrator at the Pentagon at the time of the incident, when an unidentified woman confronted Bennett, who punched her, the complaint said. Marisa Valle, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's Office, said the office expected the jury would acquit Bennett. "The jury deliberated for an hour and a half and found that he did not possess the intent to commit a sexual offense, and that he did not commit a sexual offense," she said. The jury began deliberating Tuesday after a three-day trial. In opening statements last week, Romano told the jury that Bennett punched the woman because he was angry about the way she treated him. Valle said the victim, the only witness to the attack, testified that Bennett punched her in the back of the head and neck, choked her, and dragged her across the pavement by her purse. She said Bennett choked her until she lost consciousness and awoke on the ground with a "seizure-like" episode. But Bennett's attorneys said the woman made the entire incident up. Bennett, who testified in his own defense Monday, said the woman approached him aggressively and he was defending himself. He said she punched him first. The woman, who was identified in court documents only by her initials, "CC," testified that she suffered a concussion and was hospitalized for three days following the incident. Romano told the jury that Bennett isn't a "good" or "bad person," but that he attacked the woman because he was angry about something she had done to him in the past. The victim, who was 30 at the time of the incident, was helping a friend get a rental car in the Pentagon's Central Parking Garage in September 2017. The two were turning in a rental car around
