As the player is not moving on the pitch, the ball is displayed accurately and accurately replicates the movement of a player in real time. This enables the player to pause the game at any time, capture the movement of the ball in the air, control its trajectory and any defender's movement in first-person view. The high-intensity realism of the animation can be manipulated by editing each of the movements of a player in slow-motion, which can then be played back in real time. Furthermore, using game engine technology, it is possible to move on the pitch with players to show the complex flow of real-life player movements in-game. This has proven to be very popular with fans and players, both current and new, and is the driving force behind the new gameplay system. With the majority of players' top actions in a player evaluated and recorded in real time, FIFA 22 allows players to create some of their most memorable moments through the game. Furthermore, each of the top actions of a player is recorded, calculated and then displayed in real time during gameplay. In addition to creating amazing moments, players can now analyse their own game more easily in order to improve their own performances. They can also see if they are fully exploiting the playing field, or if they are not playing in the optimal tactical position. As players are now able to analyse their own performances throughout a match, they can learn from playing against the best from around the world. Players can also analyse their opponents to build up an educated view of where they are in relation to their team and where they would like to improve. Moves can also be edited and replayed at full speed, so players can analyse, fine-tune and improve their technique. In addition, players can now look at any defender's movement in first-person view using a new tracking system. These tools and features are central to the new gameplay system found in FIFA 22. Other technologies and innovations introduced into FIFA 22 include increased camera work during goal celebrations, the introduction of a third Interpass option and increased goal celebrations. Player animations, goal celebrations and goalkeeper work have all been updated. There are also major enhancements to the goalie and there are many tweaks to the collision mesh. There are also new and improved heading animations, the ball physics model has been improved, the match simulation now properly simulates long passes and the ball has more velocity at high altitude
