This invention relates to a bag-in-a-box structure and, more particularly, to a bag-in-a-box structure provided with both a ventilated function and a heat insulation function. 2. Prior Art Conventional heat-insulating products are disclosed in, for example, Japanese Laid-open Patent Publication

(Kokai) No. 1-223316
and U.S. Pat. No.
4,968,531. In the heat-insulating product disclosed in the Japanese publication, a film is used which is made into a bag-like configuration in which a heat-insulating layer is formed on the inside of a resin film and is filled with air. It is not

practical for the heat-insulating film to be made into a bag-like configuration because a large film is required for making a heat-insulating bag. The heat-insulating film is not made into a bag-like configuration and is instead folded into a box shape. The film is heat-sealed on the top portion of the box to package the film. The box containing the heat-insulating film is folded and packaged. On the other hand, the conventional heat-insulating products disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 4,968,531 utilize an air-permeable material as a member to retain the heat-insulating property of a heat-insulating

---

I need to change the value of each 'id' to 'value': { "12": "4", "13": "6" } I know I could use a for loop, but I want to know if there is a JS way to do this? I'm only familiar with jQuery for this use case. A: You can use Object.values() like this var obj = { "id": 12, "value": "4", "name": "Johnson" }, { "id": 13, "value": "6",
