Manage My Music 2008-10-12 Yes, maddog, I am a big part of the IT crowd, because I'm not connected to the Internet. However, I'm a big fan of the Nintendo DS - I play any game I can find on the DS, so I buy the highest end in each generation and upgrade after a few games. I was hoping someone here might be able to recommend some Â£70 games I can play at the pub and take with me to the park. I think two years ago, I had a few games on the DS that were sold at Â£4 or less and one of them was a puzzle game and it went all cracked in the end. danielrj 2007-08-31 00:26:29 you what you want already, you just want to tell him about the idea of Freemium.. delimited, and Comma-Delimited, and will even convert them to PDF. You can then preview the forms before sending in an email (or saved as a PDF). Also supports attachments including Excel. Sadly no Mac version, as it's software, but it's only around a hundred bucks here so not too bad. For Mac folks, check out the LiveCycle designer suite.

Tilda21 2007-05-05 Help! I am new to Linux and am using Fedora Core 7, but I have just set up the broadband connection so I can start getting the rest of the software that I need to install. But how do I get to the broadband connection to set up my email account? Sorry, newbie questions. Tilda21
